2013 Herbst Tour Brings Record Crowds

By all indications from tour stop representatives, the 2013 Herbst Tour drew a record number of visitors. Praise to God for providing excellent weather for the seventh consecutive year. All of this year's three new stops (the Uebel stone house, the Vogel house and farm outside of Silver Grove, and the new St. Anne Woodlands Preserve) were pleasantly overwhelmed with visitors on the tour day.

A recurring comment from tour hosts at the individual stops is the sincere interest shown by many of the visitors and their appreciation for the event. Many visitors return year after year.

Thanks are in order for the tour stop participants and for our numerous volunteers who assist in so many ways. Please support our brochure advertisers without whom the tour would not be possible.

One contributing factor to this year's record attendance was certainly the terrific coverage of the event by local media, including articles in the Kentucky Enquirer, Campbell County Recorder and, of course, the KET special segment which highlighted Camp Springs as part of its Kentucky Life series. Initial planning is already underway for the October 19, 2014 Camp Springs Herbst (Autumn) Tour. Mark your calendars now. Any questions, contact Mike Enzweiler (859-630-2874).

There has been some confusion around town regarding the web-site's presence on Facebook. For some time there has been a different Camp Springs Facebook page that is not associated with www.campsprings.com. To stay connected, "like" www.campsprings.com on Facebook by visiting facebook.com/campspringsky or visit www.campsprings.com and click on the Facebook logo on the right hand side of the screen.

St. Joseph Elementary Open House

All are welcome to the Open House (grades K-8) on Sunday, January 26, from 9 a.m. till noon. Visit with teachers and staff, and tour the school (founded 1851) which emphasizes Christian values. Contact the school office at 859-635-5652.

Farm Focus: Little Rock Farm

Today's Little Rock Farm was purchased by Otto and Florence Schack in 1938 when they were married. Among other things, they grew onions, raised dairy cattle and sold cream.

Bob Schack purchased the farm when his father, Otto, died. Over the years, the farm production has taken on different faces: beef cattle instead of dairy, grains and corn rather than vegetables, and for a while hogs and tobacco were raised. Bob Schack passed away in March 2012. The farm, at 2802 Ten Mile Road, is now owned by his daughters, Stephanie Zink and Kim Fahlbush.

Since 1999 the farm has been selling produce at local farmers' markets. In addition, 30 different flavors of breads are currently available from Little Rock Farm. Their pies, jams and jellies are very popular at this time of year.

Little Rock also offers farm-raised freezer beef. People can stop by the farm at any time and purchase beef which has no added hormones or antibiotics. The beef is USDA inspected and vacuum packed for freshness.

The farm is open 8:00 - 8:00 every day. During this time of year, there is no produce available, but freezer beef, jams and jellies can be purchased. Breads, pies and holiday gift baskets are available by order. Contact the farm at lrf@campsprings.com, at 635-9668 or on Facebook at littlerockfarmcampsprings.

2014 Calendar Honors Work Of Don Wiedeman

In addition to his efforts with Camp Springs Initiative, the Herbst Tour and the annual fire department turkey shoot, Don Wiedeman somehow found the time to create a desktop calendar each year which featured our historic Camp Springs community. This year, Don's loyal right-hand man on many projects, Mike Enzweiler, partnered with Joe Zink to keep the calendar tradition alive for 2014. The desktop photo calendar includes scenes of the Four Mile area throughout the four seasons and includes all three local churches.

The 2014 Camp Springs Calendar is now available for $10 at these locations:

- Camp Springs Vineyard and Winery
- Little Rock Farm
- Reitman's Auto Parts

For more information, please contact Mike Enzweiler at 859-630-2874 or Joe Zink at 859-655-5708.
