Camp Springs Artist Exhibits at Kentucky Folk Art Center

Mike Enzweiler's work has been exhibited at the Kentucky Folk Art Center in Morehead, Kentucky since January. He describes his art: "For decades, I have been concerned about the excessive amount of waste that we humans generate, items that not only can be recycled but also could be repurposed or upscaled

This notion tremendously influences my artwork. Seldom do I purchase new materials for my art pieces. Only if absolutely needed will I purchase fasteners (nails, screws, etc.) instead, I most often employ used nails, screws, etc. and even buy otherwise unsellable paint from local paint retailers. The storehouse for these used materials is my 1860 barn that is stockpiled with found wood, metal, etc. that guide my designs. As witnessed by much of my artwork, the barn itself has influenced the look of what I create. My first barn piece dates back to 2008. There seems to be no end in sight to my fascination with the simple barn shape. I continue to make pieces beyond the barn shape and those are also guided by materials that I have saved from landfills."

News From Campbell County

The Campbell County Fiscal Court is sponsoring a Shred Day/Prescription Drug Disposal Day. Residents can bring over-the-counter and prescription medications, paper, notebooks, file folders, blue prints, rubber bands, paper clips, staples and alligator clips to the Cold Spring Furniture Fair at 3710 Alexandria Pike from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, March 28.
